APPLICANT NOTICE CONCERNING THE AMERICANS WITH DISABILITIES ACT

Some applicants are not aware that The Master's University's interviewers cannot ask them whether they have disabilities that are protected under the Americans with Disabilities Act (the ADA) or if they may require reasonable accommodations for such disabilities. Applicants may also not realize they should give advance notice of the need for accommodations in the employment process (such as when taking tests or being interviewed). To prevent any misunderstanding or embarrassments, The Master's University wishes to advise you of the following:

If you have a protected disability (as defined by the ADA), our organization is required to provide you with reasonable accommodation for these purposes:

- a. To ensure you can apply for employment; and
- b. To enable a qualified individual with a disability to perform essential job functions.

In the employment process, reasonable accommodation is any modification or adjustment to the employment process that makes it possible for you to apply for employment. In job performance, reasonable accommodation is any modification or adjustment to the job, the work environment, or the way things are usually done that makes it possible for a qualified person with a disability to perform the essential functions of the job.

If you believe such an accommodation is needed, please tell your interviewer, and indicate the type of accommodation you feel would be effective. For certain types of accommodations to permit you to apply for employment (such as providing a reader or interpreter), we will need reasonable advance notice.

By law, we are not permitted to ask you if you need accommodation or have a protected disability.
